Subject: The Code of Ethics

It has been a well deserved rest, but work on the Code must start again.
The version 3 draft of the Code has been published in Communications of the ACM November 1997 vol 40, no 11 pages 110-118 and in Computer vol 30, no 11 pages 88-92 (Computer had published the Code in the October edition, but because there was no reference to in in the table of contents, they published again in the November issue.)

Both article contained a survey for each item in the code. The responses are already coming in and from the results so far received, I think we should feel good about our product. The coments indicate that we are not done yet.

There have been some helpful criticisms. They range from things which are easy to adjust to those which are not easy. I am organizing the responses and will send them to you in a few weeks for your input.

best to all,
don
