> Ed,

I'm in the midst of revising our graduate program on Distributed Systems. It has to go through an accreditation board in two weeks time.

I think that you could first send the outline (which looks good) to Al now with a line saying that we would come up with a name for the third editor asap(?). This is not a good approach unless you have an individual in mind. I would give you a bunch of names with their e-mail addresses tomorrow if you want to approach them.

Right now I'm too busy with a heap of document and squirming imagining a posse of inquisitors that this accreditation board is going to come up with!
